First aid training and first aid instructor training made interesting

[\[body text\]](#)

First aid training is a serious subject, whether it's for employees, volunteers or instructors. It has obvious statutory implications as far as many companies and organisations are concerned, but that doesn't mean that it can't be delivered in an engaging way.

At Good Skills Training we offer first aid training and first aid instructor training that's designed not only to satisfy legal requirements, but to encourage students to see the value and importance of what they're learning. After all, first aid saves and changes lives. Ask anyone who's applied their first aid training to a real life or death situation.

For some the experience triggers a desire to teach others by becoming an instructor themselves. Our first aid instructor training not only provides organisations with an effective method of teaching first aid and first aiders in-house, but individuals with a potentially new and fulfilling career. We often recruit first aid instructors from among those we've trained ourselves.

Most of our training course bookings come through word-of-mouth recommendation, which means that most of our in-house first aid training courses at least tend to be delivered in surrounding Essex, Hertfordshire, Cambridgeshire and London. It also means that we don't need to spend as much on marketing, which keeps our prices down.

Our open first aid instructor courses take place all over the country. We currently have dates available in [\[link to booking page\]](#) London, Bishops Stortford, Birmingham and Newcastle, to name but a few.

"As a Fellow of the CIPD (Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development) I'm rarely impressed by (others') training. This... was the best first aid training I have ever done. It was engaging and full of energy."
